DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 12, 14-16 and 18-33 are pending. Claims 1-11, 13 and 17 are cancelled.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 12, 14-16 and 18-22 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 12, 14-16 and 18-33 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Dierks et al. (Dierks), The TLS Protocol, Version 1.0 in view of Huber et al. (Huber), U.S. Patent No. 7,237,261 and further in view of Pathmasuntharan et al. (Pathmasuntharan), U.S. Patent No. 6,955,299.

As per claims 12, 14-16 and 18-33:

Dierks substantially teaches a method comprising generating a first public key for encrypting a first wireless communication and generating, upon termination of the first wireless communication, a second public key for use in a second wireless communication; and determining whether the second public key has been stored prior to establishing the second wireless communication and if its not stored generating a third public key (Section 7.2.1, 7.3

since at the beginning of a handshake first keys are established, then upon termination, new keys are generated when handshakes are begun again and the handshake finished message confirms that the key is stored before communication is established and if it not stored, such as when a re-establishment of a session is attempted and denied, then the handshake protocols begin again, generating a third key).

Dierks fails to teach the protocols being used for wireless communication. However, Huber discloses a method wherein WTLS is utilized in order to achieve end to end security for wireless communications between a terminal and a Web or WAP server (abstract, 2:10-23).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of applicant's invention to use WTLS for wireless communications in order to provide end to end security for wireless communications as suggested by Huber (1:62-2:6).

Dierks and Huber fail to teach generating the second public key prior to initiation of the second wireless communication. However, Pathmasuntharan discloses generating a second cryptographic key prior to initiation of a second transaction and after the previous transaction has been completed (13:30-42).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of applicant's invention to generate and replace a previous cryptographic key with a newly generated one in order to increase security since a new key is used for each transaction as taught by Pathmasuntharan (2:22-34).

Conclusion

Art Unit: 2132

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
